

PUT CHILDREN & YOUTH FIRST ON THE POLITICAL AGENDA!

2019 Federal Election Toolkit

October 21, 2019 is Election Day in Canada. On that day, eligible voters exercise their right to vote for one of the candidates in their riding to represent them in the federal House of Commons.

The purpose of this toolkit is to support individuals and community groups in their advocacy for legislation, policy and practice that benefit children and youth and their families.

The toolkit is structured around the 4 Keys to Success. Each section highlights some of the current issues facing children, youth and families in BC and Canada and suggests solutions government can act on, in the form of questions to candidates.

KEYS TO SUCCESS FOR CHILDREN AND YOUTH

- 1 A strong commitment to early childhood development
- 2 Support in youth transitions from childhood to adulthood
- 3 Increased economic equality
- 4 Safe and caring communities

First Call’s work is guided by the 4 Keys to Success for Children and Youth. These keys were developed by First Call through extensive research and focus groups across the province, and reflect the scope of what is necessary to ensure the healthy development and well-being of BC’s children and youth. We know what will help and are looking for political commitment.

Putting BC’s children and youth first means:

1. A strong commitment to early childhood development
2. Support in transitions from childhood to youth to adulthood
3. Increased economic equality
4. Safe and caring communities

This year, in honour of the 30th Anniversary of the Convention on the Rights of the Child and 30 years since the 1989 all-party House of Commons resolution to end child poverty by the year 2000, we feature a few special initiatives.

Information on how to vote, how to organize an all-candidates meeting, how to contact the media, candidates and political parties is available on our child poverty website www.Still1in5.ca

Early childhood is a crucial, time-limited period of human development. Data from BC's Early Development Index shows the number of children who are vulnerable on one or more measures of healthy development is increasing. All families should be able to access early childhood development supports and services that they need.

EQUITABLE ACCESS TO EARLY LEARNING AND CHILD CARE

There are licensed child care spaces for only 20% of children in BC. Child care across Canada is often characterized by high fees, low staff wages, mediocre quality, and unacceptable wait lists. Canada's public support for young children and their families is the weakest among the world's rich countries at 0.25% of GDP - well below the 1% international benchmark.

Canada needs a publicly funded and managed early learning and child care (ELCC) system that is affordable, high quality, accessible and inclusive. "High quality" in a BC Indigenous ELCC context means that programs for Indigenous children must be culturally appropriate, reinforce pride in identity, be grounded in an Indigenous worldview and spirituality, and include Indigenous knowledge, values, ways of being and ways of caring for young children.

Questions

- Will your party support the Affordable Child Care for All Plan, including the following commitments?
 - Significantly increase Canada's ELCC budget by $1 billion each year over 10 years to meet international benchmarks?
 - Pass federal legislation to ensure quality child care becomes and remains accessible to all families in Canada?
 - Continue to work with Indigenous leaders and communities to operationalize, implement and expand on the Indigenous Early Learning and Child Care Framework to realize the goals and aspirations of the Indigenous Peoples?

EQUITABLE ACCESS TO PARENTAL LEAVE

Parents receive only 55% of their average weekly earnings when taking maternity/parental leave. In the majority of provinces, only 25% of fathers take parental leave. Not all people are eligible for parental leave because it is delivered as a part of the Employment Insurance program which has eligibility restrictions and can be inadequate for many Canadians.

Question

- Will your party improve parental leave benefits so more low-wage, part-time, contract, and self-employed parents can qualify and afford to take leave?

Transitions are times of increased vulnerability when children and youth may need extra support to navigate them safely. Developmental transitions include moving into adolescence and into the expectations of adult life. Other stressful transitions include changes in family, such as when parents separate or are unable to keep their children safe. Dealing with a mental illness, being new to Canada or coming to terms with a minority sexual identity are other examples of transitions that require extra support. Canada's youth need a strong safety net of universal and targeted programs and services to be there for them when times get tough.

MENTAL HEALTH

An estimated 84,000 (12.6%) children aged 4 to 17 years of age in BC are experiencing mental health disorders at any given time. From 2009 to 2017, there was an 86% increase in hospitalizations in BC for mental health issues of youth under 25 years of age. Suicide is the second leading cause of death among Canadian youth. First Nations youth and LGBTQ+ youth are at the highest risk.

Notably, Canada spends only 7.2% of its health budget on mental health care, the lowest proportion of funds spent on mental health among all G7 countries.

Questions

- Will your party increase the proportion of federal health funding dedicated to mental health promotion and treatment services?
- Will your party make community supports for child and youth mental health a priority?

STUDENT DEBT

The average Canadian university graduate finished school with more than $26,000 in student debt. Among those who have never participated in post-secondary education, "financial issues" have been found to be the most commonly recognized barrier.

Canadians with student loans pay, on average, $5,000 in student loan interest. The system unfairly punishes those who can't afford to pay education costs up-front. This unfair debt burden impacts those raising families.

Data from the 2016 census show 11% of Indigenous people had a university degree, compared to 29% for non-Indigenous people. High poverty levels for Indigenous people are a significant barrier to their ability to get a post-secondary education.

Questions

- Will your party increase federal support for access to post-secondary education, both to remove financial barriers for low-income students and to lower student debt?

INCARCERATION AND DETENTION

70% of federally incarcerated women report being parents of minor children, and incarcerated women are twice as likely as men to be supporting dependents on the outside. 118 children were detained or housed in a Canadian detention centre in 2018-19.

Questions

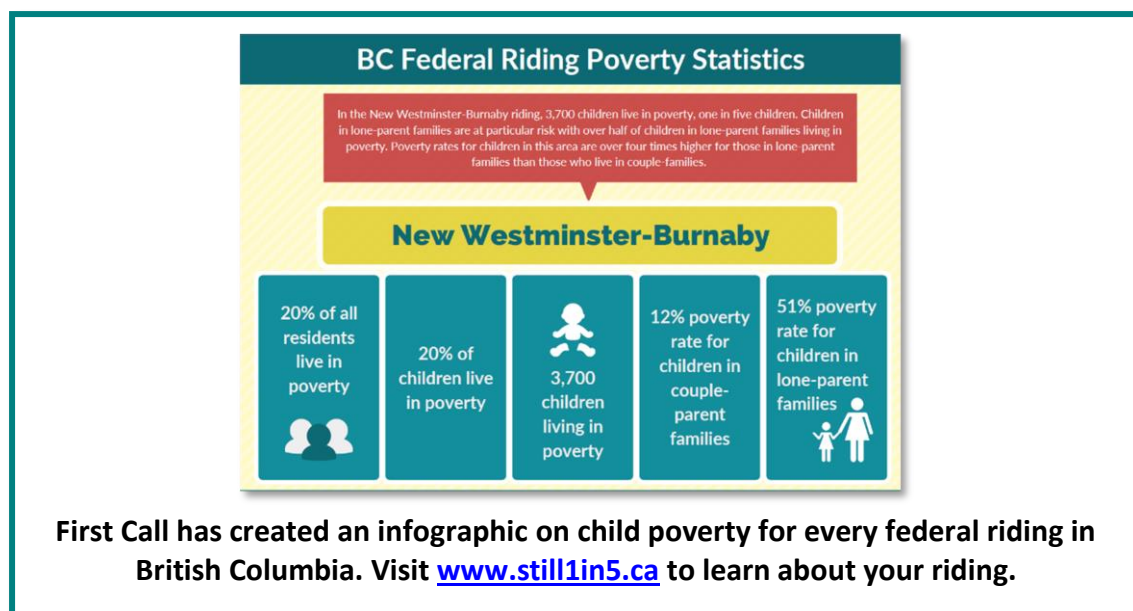

- Will your party lead Canada in shifting to a more child-friendly criminal justice system, which considers the effects of parental incarceration on a child and utilizes alternatives to incarceration whenever possible?
- Will your party amend the Immigration and Refugee Protection Act in order to end the detention of migrant and refugee children and ensure that migrant and refugee parents are never forced to choose between bringing their children into detention and allowing them to be placed into foster care?

IMMIGRATION SETTLEMENT AND SUPPORT SERVICES

Government-assisted refugees must pay back their refugee transportation loan with interest. Access to federally funded settlement programs is restricted to permanent residents and convention refugees, excluding many vulnerable people with alternate immigration statuses.

Questions

- Will your party provide increased, stable funding for immigrant settlement services, and make immigrant settlement services available on the basis of need not immigration status?
- Will your party immediately cancel all outstanding refugee transportation loan debt and cease seeking repayment of transportation costs for new refugees coming to Canada?

Research has long demonstrated that poverty is toxic to children's health and development. From poor nutrition to family stress to exclusion from social participation, there are many ways that poverty is known to increase the risk of lifelong ill effects on health and reduce opportunities for individuals to realize their full potential. Growing income inequality in Canada is recognized as a threat to the health of both individuals and our society.

CHILD POVERTY

The impacts of living in deep poverty are devastating for children and youth. In the short-term they are at a higher risk of becoming homeless and, potentially, being removed from their families and placed in government care. One-third of food bank users in Canada are children.

Poverty is the most important social determinant of health. Long-term studies show that even access to universal medical care cannot overcome the likelihood that growing up poor will lead to life-long, persistent health issues.

Recent immigrants, Indigenous children, children in female lone-parent families, children in racialized families, and children with disabilities have significantly higher rates of poverty.

In 2018, the federal government introduced Canada's First Poverty Reduction Strategy including legislated targets and timelines. While this is a good start, many of the initiatives have yet to be implemented.

Questions

- Will your party commit to maintaining and enhancing the federal Poverty Reduction Strategy and the targets and timelines to eradicate poverty?
- Will your party ensure strategies to reduce child poverty will be a priority in ministries across government and properly funded through budget measures?

MEASURING POVERTY

In 2018, the federal government adopted the Market Basket Measure (MBM) as Canada's first Official Poverty Line. Using the MBM instead of the internationally comparable Low Income Measure (LIM), gives a false impression that Canada's child poverty rates have fallen unrealistically in recent years – by over half in some places.

While it is true that improvements to the Canada Child Tax Benefit have had a positive impact, the MBM, as it is currently calculated, is understating the actual rate of child poverty.

For example, a recent public survey on the cost of housing in the MBM found that over 90% of respondents said the measure does not reflect actual housing costs.

Question

- Will your party commit to working with community partners and Statistics Canada to set a poverty rate line that accurately reflects the basic needs of Canadian families?

HOUSING

One in four Canadian households experience core housing need – meaning they are spending more than 30% of their income on their housing. Nearly one in five Canadian households experience extreme core housing need – spending more than 50% of their income on housing. And youth make up 20% of Canada’s homeless population.

Question

- Will your party commit to fully funding strategies in Canada’s National Housing Strategy?

FOOD SECURITY

It is estimated that 1.15 million children in Canada live in households that struggle to put food on the table. Households led by female lone parents are especially vulnerable to food insecurity with one-third food insecure. Canada is one of the few industrialized countries that does not have a national school food program.

Question

- Will your party commit to implementing a cost-shared, universal healthy school food program?

EMPLOYMENT INSURANCE ELIGIBILITY AND SUFFICIENCY

Employment Insurance (EI) is based on full-time employment with one employer. Those who have part-time or erratic work are left with insufficient hours to qualify for EI or receive reduced weeks of benefits if they do qualify.

Typically, women, immigrants, and young people are most likely to be under-employed and therefore most likely not to qualify for adequate EI benefits.

Question

- Will your party rescind cuts to Employment Insurance, made by previous governments, so that all workers are protected during a temporary loss of wages and receive livable benefits while they look for new employment?

KINSHIP CARE

When Canadian Pension Plan Disability recipients turn 65, they automatically become "regular" CPP recipients at a reduced rate and lose children's benefits, even if they are still raising children. It is estimated that 32,505 children aged 0-14 are being raised by grandparents in Canada.

Questions

- Will your party adjust the CPP legislation to allow payment of the children’s benefit to be continued when a grandparent raising a grandchild turns 65 and transitions to the regular CPP program?
- Will your party remove administrative barriers to receiving the CCB for kinship carers?

Creating safe environments requires that adults take responsibility to ensure safety wherever young people spend time. Families rely on provincial and federal legislation to provide minimum standards for keeping children and youth safe in all aspects of community life. This includes employment standards and protective legislation to keep the physical environment clean and healthy for growing bodies. As a signatory to the UN Convention on the Rights of the Child, all federal legislation and policy should prioritize the immediate and long-term best interests of Canada's children and youth based on credible research evidence.

CHILD RIGHTS

Under Section 43, parents, teachers, and other caregivers are "justified in using force by way of correction toward a pupil or child." This is a violation of children's right to physical safety. Research shows that physical punishment of children results in increased delinquency and criminal behaviour later in life, harms the mental health of children, increases non-compliance in both the short and long-term, and increases aggression in the child.

The federal government has a responsibility to promote and monitor the implementation of the rights and protections of children in all Canadian jurisdictions. However, there is no focal point for children at the federal level to ensure children's needs and rights are considered in legislation, policy and services.

Questions

- Will your party repeal Section 43 of the Criminal Code, which allows parents, teachers, and other caregivers to use physical punishment on children?
- Will your party appoint a National Children's Commissioner and increase public accountability for respecting the rights of children in Canada?

HEALTH CARE

One-third of Canadians have no dental insurance. Half of lower-income Canadians have an identified need for dental care. In the absence of a national pharmacare plan, lower-income Canadians often don't fill their prescriptions due to financial hardship.

Questions

- Will your party introduce universal coverage for prescription drugs, dental care, and eye care?
- Will your party negotiate a new 10-year Health Accord with provincial and territorial governments to secure the health care needs of citizens in all regions and into the future?

INEQUITABLE FUNDING FOR FIRST NATIONS CHILDREN

40% of First Nations children live in poverty. While comprising 8% of children in Canada, 52% of children in foster care are Indigenous. 39% of drinking water systems on First Nations reserves are categorized as high risk. 40% of First Nations people report experiencing sexual and/or physical violence and abuse as children as compared to 29% of non-First Nations people.

Questions

- Will your party commit to complying with the recent Human Rights Tribunal order to pay compensation to First Nations children and parents?
- Will your party implement immediate increases to funding for First Nations child welfare services, education and community health services, and services for urban Aboriginal people?
- Will your party fully adopt the Truth and Reconciliation Commission of Canada's Calls to Action? And recommendations in The Final Report of the National Inquiry into Missing and Murdered Indigenous Women and Girls?

In September, the Canadian Human Rights Tribunal ordered the federal government to pay compensation to First Nations children and their parents who were harmed by the on-reserve child welfare system.

VIOLENCE AGAINST WOMEN AND GIRLS

67% of family violence victims are women and girls. Girls are 4.5 times more likely than boys to be victims of child sexual abuse by a family member. Girls aged 14-17 are almost twice as likely to be victims of family-related violence as their male counterparts.

Indigenous women and girls face greater risks of violence and homicide. Indigenous women and girls account for 21% of female homicide victims.

Between 2009 and 2016, 95% of human trafficking victims in Canada were female and one quarter were under 18.

Questions

- Will your party support the development and implementation of a coherent, coordinated, and well-resourced National Action Plan on Violence Against Women and Girls?
- Will your party implement an action plan in response to the Calls for Justice from the Final Report of the National Inquiry into Missing and Murdered Indigenous Women and Girls?
- How will your party address the root causes of child trafficking and hold traffickers to account?
